

Mobile Learning with Blooms Taxonomy and the Padagogy Wheel

Developed by Cherie Pickering
Unley High School (October, 2012)

Acknowledging the Concept Development

This representation of the tools used by teachers and students, at Unley High School, is an adaptation of The Padagogy Wheel, developed by Allan Carrington of the University of Adelaide. This innovative tool, in turn, was built upon the work of Sharon Artley (see Paul Hopkins website mmiweb.org.uk), itself an adaptation of Kathwohl and Anderson's (2001) adaptation of Blooms (1956).

The idea to develop it for Unley High School came from a desire to visually represent some of the ways in which the Apps, required by our Middle School students, are used as 21st Century teaching and learning tools.

● Blooms ● Verbs ● Activities ○ Apps